COURSE OBJECTIVE: This course is designed for the student to explore small group communication theory and concepts and to develop an ability to apply this knowledge to everyday small group experiences.

COURSE OUTCOMES: By the end of this course students will be able to

1. Identify the language, listening, and nonverbal communication skills that are needed to promote a positive communication climate in a group setting.
2. Analyze the influence of culture on group interaction.
3. Identify the actions needed to conduct an effective meeting and promote group productivity.
4. Analyze the methods of decision making used by a group.
5. Evaluate how theoretical group problem solving models can be used to help a group accomplish a task.
6. Identify methods groups can use to stimulate critical and creative thinking while problem solving.
7. Evaluate how leadership theory can be used to help a group accomplish its goals.
8. Identify different methods for managing conflict within a group.

FORMAT- You will be engaged in online discussions and group assignments designed to aid your understanding of the concepts explored in class. This course also includes an extensive group project. In addition, this area of study contains complex theories and difficult social science jargon. I will do my best to assist you, but a college reading level is needed to succeed in this course.

POLICIES

1. Late work (including class pre-work, paper, or project) and late quizzes will not be accepted unless arrangements are made with me before the due date.
2. Given the subject of the course, the Group Project is a required portion of this class. Students must meet the participation requirement discussed above even if they numerous outside commitments. If a student cannot meet the class attendance requirement for the group project, he/she should drop the class and find a course that better meets his/her schedule.
3. Students caught cheating on a quiz or plagiarizing an assignment will not receive any credit for that portion of the class. Repeat offenses will be reported to the Dean of Student Programs.

4. Special Needs: The Disability Resource Center serves students with a wide array of learning challenges and disabilities. If you are a student who has a disability or learning challenge for which you have documentation or have seen someone for treatment and if you feel you may need accommodations in order to be successful in college, please contact us as soon as possible. If you are a student with a documented autism spectrum disorder, there is a program of support available to you. The DRC office is located in B 132 or you can call our reception desk at 425.564.2498. Deaf students can reach us by video phone at 425-440-2025 or by TTY at 425-564-4110. Please visit the DRC website for application information into the program and other helpful links at www.bellevuecollege.edu/drc Please meet with me if you have any questions.

5. Students are required to follow the behavior outlined by the Arts and Humanities Student Procedures and Expectations: <http://bellevuecollege.edu/artshum/policy.html>

6. Students are expected to model the behavior discussed in the content of this course. While collaborating online in your group you may certainly disagree and debate, but you are required to demonstrate tolerance and respect at all times in your postings. Please avoid the use of all capital letters to emphasize a point as this technique is the written equivalent of shouting. Students who violate this policy are subject to removal from the group and will forfeit the Group Project and Communication Analysis Paper points.
