3) Bellevue College e-mail/network account (username@bellevuecollege.edu)

Study Aids: 1) Before you begin, make sure you have a BC student network (email) account and know your "username" and "password". If you do not yet have an account, go to <http://mybcc.net/createAccount.asp> and create an account - it's free. In order to check whether your BC email is working, I will send an e-mail to you with some questions. Please return your answers using your BC email by Friday, Jan. 10th, 11:59pm (PST) so that I know you have a working account. You need to be able to view our course site on Canvas in order to do this assignment.

2) Log onto our Canvas course site with your network username and password for helpful study aids such as vocabulary flash cards, workbook answers, lecture highlights and links to the self-study website for Genki learners. If you do not have an internet access at home, you can log onto our class site using computers at 1) BC Library Media Center, Mon-Th 7am-8pm, Fri 7am-5pm, Sat Closed, Sun 1-5pm 2) Computer Lab (N250) with over 200 computers Mon-Th 7am-9:30pm, Fri 7am-7pm, Sat and Sun 9am-6pm or 3) Language Lab (A244) open hours will be posted on the door.

3) You may visit the Academic Success Center (D204) for extra practice in Japanese with a tutor. Please inquire about tutoring schedule in person or visit <http://bellevuecollege.edu/asc/tutoring/> for details. Drop-in group tutoring is open to anyone taking credit Japanese classes. Students receiving C or below may sign up for one-on-one (private) tutoring upon request and an approval from the instructor. All tutoring sessions are free of charge.

Study Tips

1. Set a study schedule / routine and stick to it.
2. Listen and practice out loud with the audio disk accompanying the textbook and the workbook. The accompanying CD-ROM disks can be played on computers, but not on many older / 'standard' music-CD players. The audio files on the disk are not for passive listening, so don't be shy about speaking up. You won't learn to pronounce Japanese correctly by just listening or reading quietly to yourself. Practice with the audio as often as possible. Review speaking by listening to the practice sections we cover in class. First, just listen to see if you understand what's being said. Once you know what is expected, listen again and provide a reply. Repeat over and over until you feel comfortable. The more you practice speaking, the sooner you will become a better speaker. The Japanese speakers in the audio files never get tired, so please replay phrases over and over. You could also use the audio files as a dictation tool. Listen to the audio and write down what it is saying.

3. Take breaks. Research shows most people learn far more in 3 sessions of 12 minutes (with 5 min. breaks in between) than in a single 50 min. marathon. Find what works for you. About a total of 40-50 min. a day should be committed to reviewing the materials we covered in class.
4. Don't be shy about asking questions. We all appreciate and learn from each other's questions.

Course Requirements

Attendance: You are expected to attend classes every day on time. Attendance is checked daily at the beginning of the class. If you come to class late or leave early, it will count as a "half" absence. However, attending a class late is better than not attending at all. When you are tardy, please be sure to turn in any homework as soon as you walk into the classroom. If your homework is turned in after class, I'm going to assume the work was done during class and it will be counted as "late" work and only half credit will be given. If you miss a class, it is your responsibility to obtain information missed during your absence. Be sure to turn in your assignments on the day you return to class. If school is closed or a class is cancelled, check the Canvas course site for any possible announcements from your instructor. If you have a BC email address, you will automatically receive emergency notifications such as school closures from Rave Alert.

Participation: Attend each class ready to work in Japanese. Daily review outside of class is essential for full participation. Bring your textbook, workbook and printed Task Sheets posted on the course site to class and participate actively. Asking relevant questions is encouraged, and don't be afraid to make mistakes. Remember we all learn from each other's mistakes. Please also remember to turn off your electronic devices before class - and no texting once class begins. If you need to use your laptop, tablet or cell phone during class, please submit an e-mail request to me at the beginning of the quarter.

Tests: We will have Chapter Tests at the end of Lesson 1, Lesson 2 and Lesson 3. Material from Lesson 4 will be included as part of the Final Exam. Please see the class calendar posted on the course site for the test dates. Cell phones must be turned off and put away. Hats and sunglasses must be removed during tests and quizzes. On the day of each test, your self-corrected Genki workbook pages for that lesson are due. On each page, please remember to indicate the page was corrected.

Quizzes: We will have at least seven quizzes. See the class calendar for quiz dates. If more than seven quizzes are given, they will be announced in advance.

No Test or Quiz make-ups will be given as a general rule. If you cannot come to class on the test/quiz days because of unavoidable circumstances such as a death in the family or serious illness, you need to contact the instructor via e-mail on or before the day you will be absent and you must make up the missed work within five days. Make-ups are not encouraged and should not be used simply when you have failed to adequately prepare for a test/quiz.

Homework assignments: Completed, self-corrected Genki workbook pages are due on the test date. To correct your work, refer to the "Genki Workbook Answers" posted on the Canvas class site. Please use a different colored pen when making corrections. After you self-correct your work, remember to write "Self-corrected" at the top even if there are no corrections to make, so I know you checked your answers. Pages that are completed, but not self-corrected will only receive partial credit. Wrong answers that are not self-corrected will also only receive partial credit. You are not penalized for the number of mistakes in workbook pages as long as they are self-corrected. "Listening Comprehension" audio files for the workbook are also posted on the Canvas class site in the audio folder. Don't wait until the last minute to do your workbook. You cannot "cram" for this class. Learning a language is acquiring a new set of skills, so daily review is essential. Homework turned in after class begins but up to one day after the due date will only receive half-credit. Homework turned in two days or more after the due date will be corrected, but no credit will be given. Remember to turn in your homework as soon as you enter the classroom and BEFORE class begins on the due date to avoid losing points.

Oral Interview: Each student will be interviewed individually in Japanese by the instructor towards the end of the quarter. More information on this will be given later.

Final Exam: The final exam is comprehensive, covering from Lesson 1 through Lesson 4. The final exam start time may not be the same as the usual class start time, so please check your final exam schedule by clicking on “Class Calendar” on our Canvas class site.
