COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course begins with an examination of European art from the early Renaissance to the Rococo era. We will study works of art and architecture and examine them in their historical context and observe how they reveal cultural changes from the fourteenth to the mid eighteenth century.

We will focus on examples of painting, sculpture, the graphic arts, and architecture in order to introduce you to key principles and centers for each art historical period. We will examine the works on a variety of levels, including: the visual components of media (materials), technique, composition, style and subject. Historical and social context, the changing the role of the artist and patronage will also be considered. The subject of art history forms a necessary basis for students wishing to pursue careers in the arts in such fields as gallery and museum management, interior design, graphic design, visual technology, arts administration, teaching, research, restoration, and connoisseurship, among others. It is also a great study for anyone looking to build visual analysis skills and gain knowledge of history.

COURSE OUTCOMES

- To demonstrate an understanding of the social, historical, and aesthetic significance of works of art and architecture
- To sharpen skills of visual analysis by looking, analyzing and writing about works of art
- To relate technical processes of art making to visual styles
- To demonstrate analytical, critical thinking and problem-solving skills

Outcomes will be accomplished by completing reading assignments, thoughtfully engaging with the on-line lecture modules, participating in discussion groups and completing a research project. In order to be successful in this course a student must be active throughout the entire term and must take the initiative to contact me if any concerns or questions regarding the course material or your ability to succeed in the course come up.

Class Participation and Communications

One of the advantages of an online class is that the classroom is open 24/7 and you can come to class when and where it is convenient for you. One of the disadvantages is that being an online learner often requires a greater degree of self-discipline. My suggestion to you is that you “come to class” at least three times per week, just like you would for a classroom class. The more frequently you come to class, and the more that you participate through reading and writing discussion responses, the more you will get out of the course.

All communications will be done through the class’s Blackboard site. Any necessary revisions or important class announcements will be announced through the site so you will need to check your class email and announcements on a regular basis. Please be aware that it is your responsibility to remain apprised of all class matters.

You can interact with me or the whole class via the discussion board or email. Using the discussion board is equivalent to raising your hand in class. It is a communication that will benefit the entire class and your classmates may respond. Of course broadcast emails to the entire class are another option for group interaction.

A personal email is equivalent to coming up to see me (or another student) after class or during a break. Please use email when a one on one conversation is desired. When corresponding with me via email, please understand that it may at times take up to 24 hours to respond on weekdays and up to 48 hours on weekends. I make every effort to check my email several times per day and to be responsive to your questions or concerns. Even though we don't physically see each other, I do get to know my students through our online interactions. I want you to know that there is a person "behind the curtain" (so to speak) that does care about you and your success in this class! It is my intention to provide feedback and grades within a day or two of the submission of work.

REQUIRED TEXTBOOK

Kleiner, Fred S, Gardner's Art Through the Ages, 14th or 13th Ed., Boston: Thomson Wadsworth, 2005. ISBN-13: 978-0-495-09307-7 OR ISBN-13:897-0-495-91542-3. Page numbers are given for both editions on the Class Schedule.

READING ASSIGNMENTS

Required readings are on final pages of your syllabus and will consist of textbook assignments and journal articles in PDF form. I recommend that you complete the assigned reading prior to watching the on-line lectures so that you can get the most of the lectures and if any discrepancies come up you ask a question or post a discussion question with regard to it. Regular homework will consist of reading assignments, thoughtful discussion posts and assignments that relate to specific journal readings. There may be one or two opportunities for extra credit.

WEEKLY DISCUSSIONS

Every week you are required to respond to a discussion question that I pose. In your response you should consider the weekly lectures and reading. However, I would also like you to feel free to expand on the questions with your own personal experience and original thought. You must also reply to at least one other student's post. The minimum word count for your individual post is 300 words. You reply post minimum is 150 words. I will read and grade all posts but this is an arena where I hope to see discussion between students blossom and take their own character. Feel free to post more responses than one. Always be respectful in your post. It is perfectly fine to express a different opinion than another student—but be mindful of writing in a respectful tone.

"A-grade" post will show original thoughts that take the course material into consideration and suggest new and interesting connections. Discussions Posts and Replies are always due on the Sunday after they are assigned at 11:59pm.

QUIZZES

There will be five chapter quizzes throughout the quarter. The quizzes will consist of multiple choice and true/false questions. Some of the Quiz questions will be reused for in the Midterm and Final Exam.

MIDTERM AND FINAL EXAM

The exams will focus on works of art seen in class and the required readings. It will include all or several examples of the following: Due to the nature of the on-line class, I anticipate students using their notes and/ or textbook when taking the exam. The time limit placed on the exam is intended to push the student to be familiar with the material prior to opening the exam so that they can complete it in time. The final exam is non-accumulative.

Short Answer: You will be shown a slide and asked to respond to a short answer question.
