TOWN HALL MEETING

Hands Up

Thursday, October 9th
10:30am – 12:30pm,
N201

There will be a Town Hall meeting to talk about the Ferguson Missouri Incident, where an unarmed young black man was killed by a white police officer. However, this is more than a Ferguson issue. This is happening at an alarming rate across the nation, and yes here in Washington State; some are calling it the Blue on Black crime.

The purpose of this event will be two-fold. First of all, it will give our black male students an opportunity to talk about this event, and personal events that have happened to them, friends, or family members, in order to start the healing process. In addition, it will help to inform and educate staff, students, and faculty, who think Ferguson is an isolated incident. If time allows, we can work on developing strategies regarding how we can be supportive of these types of incidents, along with strategies to prevent them from happening.

For more information or to bring your class to the event, contact Ron Holland, TRiO, ron.holland@bellevuecollege.edu

MENTORING

Open Forum of the Mentoring for Online Instructors Pilot Program

Wednesday,
November 19th
3:00pm – 4:30pm,
D104-E

The pilot year cohort of the Mentoring for Online Instructors Program will share their insights and reflection on the experience. All are welcome! Those interested in participating in future cohorts, either as mentors or as mentees are encouraged to attend.

For more information contact: Grace Robbins, Faculty Commons Mentoring Program Lead, grace.robbings@bellevuecollege.edu

ASSESSMENT, TEACHING AND LEARNING

UDL Teaching Squares – Squares with a Twist

Most everyone loves teaching squares and there are plenty of comments like this one:

"...I have known that there isn't a 'one right way' to teach, but by truly being in the mindset of observing the learning process across the spectrum, I was able to actually see that truth. It was humbling to see such diversity in teaching and learning. Students appeared to be equally engaged in the learning process whether it was a predominantly lecture and question class or a less structured class dominated by classroom discussion."

Fall Quarter you can join fellow faculty members to observe and learn from one another in this non-evaluative process. The Twist? A Universal Design Cohort member will be there to facilitate how UDL can be implemented in the classroom. If you are curious about UDL, or are already implementing UDL, this is a great way to learn more and gather ideas on ways to structure one's class to provide support for success of all of your students.

Stipend: $300 provided by the Office of Information Resources and the Faculty Commons for all faculty members upon completion of reflection by due date. Participation is limited to 20.

To apply or for more information, contact: Mandie Nash, Faculty Commons Classroom Strategy Faculty Lead, mandie.nash@bellevuecollege.edu

Teaching Strategies for Student Success

Fridays, October 17th
& 31st, November 7th
& 21st, December 5th,
2:30 – 6:30pm, D104-H

This workshop will focus on the theory and practice of student centered education, including universal design for learning, hands on assignments, and transformational learning strategies.

Stipend: $400 for all faculty members attending all sessions and upon completion of related materials and assignments by due date. Stipends funded by the Faculty Commons. Limited to 10 participants.

Autism on Campus Brown Bag

Tuesdays, September
30th, October 14th &
28th, November 18th,
December 2nd,
12:30 – 2:00pm D104-F

Brown Bag meetings are for faculty and others to discuss ideas for supporting and accepting autistic students on campus. Help develop a greater understanding and acceptance of autistic students; more faculty involvement in working with this population of students; greater confidence interacting with autistic students.

No registration required.

Philosophy and Logic Associated Teachers of Washington (PLATO-WA) Conference

Friday and Saturday,
October 24th & 25th

The second annual meeting of Philosophy and Logic Associated Teachers of Washington (PLATO-WA) will be held at BC on October 24th and 25th. This will be a relatively informal gathering of philosophy educators from around the state to discuss mainly philosophy teaching issues, but also to just do some philosophy. Participation by BC faculty is quite welcome. A schedule for the weekend is forthcoming.

Reconnecting with your Discipline

Thursdays, October 9th
thru 30th, 1:00 – 2:00pm,
D104-E

In the crush of teaching and academic routine, it is easy to slip into thinking that one is primarily, or even exclusively, a "teacher" and to forget what originally attracted us to the fields in which we earned our degrees. In this group we will look at ways to reconnect with our disciplines and recapture our enthusiasm for the issues and activities that first led us into academia to begin with.

INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNOLOGY AND ELEARNING

Teaching with Canvas: Canvas 101 Ongoing self-paced and facilitated online instruction.

Starts September 22nd and runs thru December 10th
Enrollment is open throughout the quarter.

Canvas 101 is perfect for new online instructors and modular so that instructors with varied backgrounds and experience can select the learning modules that best apply to their needs. This online based workshop is intended to introduce instructors to the available tools in Canvas. It is self-paced, project-based, and guided—a facilitator will be available to answer questions and to evaluate participant projects. The work is designed to be completed within one academic term or less, and should require approximately 20 total hours to complete. This course assumes that you possess basic computing skills: that you can input text into a computer, that you are familiar with basic computer file and folder organization, that you can operate a web browser, and that you can save, upload and download files. If you do not have these skills, you will need to acquire them before you register. Enrollment is Ongoing but capped at 20 participants.

Online Teaching Best Practices

Tuesdays, September 30th – December 2nd
10:30am – Noon, D104-E

Application Deadline
September 25th)

Discover how to be a more effective online educator. This pedagogy workshop focuses on investigating current best practices in teaching online/hybrid courses. Discussions and exercises center around topics such as effective course navigation, universal design, accessible content, copyright and fair use, effective discussions and assessments, diversity and equity in online learning, and keeping up with the future of online education. The workshop will be organized as a seminar, with each meeting focused around particular topics. Most sessions will allow time for both discussion of the topic and time for presentation of redeveloped course material examples. This is NOT an introductory workshop on how to set up your first course online. This workshop is for instructors who have some experience teaching hybrid or online. To learn how to use Canvas tools, take the Teaching with Canvas: Canvas 101 instead.

Stipend: $400.00 for all faculty members upon completion of, and participation in, all portions of the workshop. Stipends funded by the Faculty Commons. Enrollment is limited to 10 participants through a short application process. Applicants are selected based on a variety of factors. Application Deadline is 9/25. Notification of acceptance will be sent by 9/26.

For more information and/or an application contact: Ann Minks, Faculty Commons Online Pedagogy Lead at aminks@bellevuecollege.edu

SUSTAINABILITY & SOCIAL JUSTICE

Integrating Critical Social Justice Literacy into your Work

Tuesdays, September 23rd – December 9th, 12:30pm – 2:00pm, D104-E

This workshop is intended for FT and PT faculty who are interested to learn more about critical social justice literacy and would like to integrate this component into their course content and/or work. The course is designed so that faculty can work on a specific course or a component of the course with concepts related to critical social justice. This will be in the form of lesson planning, lectures, assignments, projects and other activities. Work will take place in class and online. The long term goals are twofold: 1. To educate and to broaden instructors' capacity to utilize a critical social justice inquiry, and 2. To educate students about critical social justice and provide them with the framework/tools so they can become leaders, thinkers and designers who approach problem solving and citizenry through the lens of social justice to engage in their local and global communities.

Stipend: $400.00 for all Faculty members upon completion of, and participation in, all portions of the workshop. Stipends funded by the Faculty Commons. Enrollment is limited to 10 participants.

Give Your Idea Some Legs: Creative Thinking Walk

Mondays and Thursdays, October 6th thru November 20th, 12:45pm – 1:15pm, Meet at the Faculty Commons

Stanford researchers found that a person's creative output increased by an average of 60 percent when walking versus sitting. Many people claim that they come up with their best ideas while walking. Steve Jobs, late co-founder of Apple, used to hold meetings while walking, and Mark Zuckerberg, co-founder of Facebook, has also been seen doing the same.

Inspired by the report "Give Your Ideas Some Legs: The Positive Effect of Walking on Creative Thinking" which was published in April 2014 by the American Psychological Association. The Faculty Commons Creative Thinking Walks invite you to boost creative inspiration and are an excellent opportunity for creative brainstorming with colleagues. Have a challenge; new ideas; a different perspective? Bring them, share them, and let's walk!

Second Annual President's Innovation Award: Open Educational Resources and Access to Education

Application Deadline: November 1st

For the 2014/15 year President David Rule has again established a $10,000 award to faculty to encourage teaching and learning excellence specifically targeted a yearly theme, with funding being divided among multiple faculty members. Individuals and whole programs/departments/ curricular units, such as certificates, are encouraged to apply. To further the access to affordable education, Dave Rule has again selected this coming year's theme the integration of Open Educational Resources in online, hybrid or on campus sections, courses, programs or curricular units in order to reduce the cost of education for our students and thereby increase student access to education.

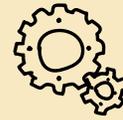

Open Educational Resources are free, usually openly licensed, high quality educational resources that include but are not limited to online textbooks and books like those found in Google Books or Open Course Library, and or media video libraries like Ted Education and can include Massive Online Open Courses (MOOCs) offered by Coursera . Literally millions of dollars have been saved for students by the adoption of these materials in the classroom.

Timeline:

- Application Deadline: November 1st by Midnight
- Review and Awards: December 5th.

TECHNOLOGY LEARNING & CONNECTION CENTER

FALL QUARTER WORKSHOPS:

COMING SOON! Look for announcements
in the weekly Canvas
Support Notes email.
Location: A109

Do you want to develop your technology skills?

Need help understanding how tools like Canvas, Office and other collaboration tools work? The Technology Learning and Connections Center mission is to serve the technology training needs of faculty and employees on campus.

In-person technology training is offered each quarter in A109 for Bellevue College faculty and staff. Workshops are geared to learning web and desktop software used at the college and to improve basic fundamental understanding of working with technology.
