What personal strengths did you demonstrate through the Community-Engaged & Civic Education (CECE) component to this course? How were they demonstrated?

Personal strengths I demonstrated through the community-Engaged & Civic Education are applying and developing my skills and concepts to real-world situations.

What did you learn about yourself in the process of doing the CECE component to the course? How did you grow? If comfortable, share a story from the class that demonstrates this personal learning or growth.

By being part of the process of doing the CECE component I had the opportunity to apply course content to theory, and creating a deeper level of understanding. I also got more motivated and engaged. As an example from our class is peer to peer review.

Describe one way in which the Community-Engaged & Civic Education (CECE) component helped you succeed in learning and/or applying the course content.

It engaged me with different learning styles which create a deeper level of understanding.

How satisfied would the partner organization / client be with your engagement or your final deliverable? Why? If no partner or client, how did the broader community benefit from your engagement?

It would benefit from my engagement by helping them to deliver their message easier.

If you were to do the Community-Engaged & Civic Learning (CECE) component again, what would you do differently? Why?

I will not change anything.
