COURSE DESCRIPTION

This introductory course on globalization explores the dynamic processes and consequences of human contact over time that cross traditional economic, cultural and geographic boundaries. The course examines the ever-increasing flows of goods, people, ideas, capital and services and the subsequent challenges that have emerged for humankind and the global web of life.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

After completing this class, students should be able to:

- Define the process of globalization and explain the factors behind the creation of a series of new socioeconomic networks and activities that cross over traditional economic, cultural and geographic boundaries.
- Analyze the regional inequalities in the rate and degrees of globalization.
- Assess the role played by globalization in the diffusion of cultural attributes.
- Evaluate the ways by which globalization is a 'multi-layered process' and the ways by which it effects all parties involved in the exchange process.
- Analyze the relevance played by inter-governmental organizations in fostering or encumbering trade and economic growth and development.
- Critically evaluate the various component parts of globalization and the impact on the environment and the subsequent challenges to humankind.

REQUIRED READING MATERIALS

Matthew Sparke's Introducing Globalization: Ties, Tensions, and Uneven Integration (Wiley-Blackwell, 2013)

Students can purchase the required book at the campus bookstore or online. Other required readings and audio/visual materials will be available on our Canvas website. I encourage all students to find the most appropriate reading method that works for you. BC students have a printing quota each quarter, but this quota is not likely to be sufficient for all the materials and assignments for every class. I suggest that residents of King County patronize the King County library system, which provides patrons with 75 'units' of free printing per week.

GRADED WORK

Reading Notes				15%
Readings Discussions				15%
Video Discussions				15%
5 Module Exams (11% each)				55%
Total				100%
Grading Scale:
A		92 - 100%	A-	90 - <92%
B+	88 - <90%	B	82 - <88%	B- 80 - <82%

D+	68 - <70%	D	60 - <68%	F <60%

Reading Notes: Students are required to turn in their notes from the assigned readings each week. Five times during the quarter (chosen randomly), I will grade the reading notes on a 5-point scale. I will use the top four scores to calculate the final reading notes grade. Students can use their reading notes on the exams.

Readings Discussions: Student participation in online discussions is a significant portion of the class. Each week we have two required discussions about the readings. Each discussion is worth 5 points. I will drop the 2 lowest grades.

Video Discussions: Every Friday you will write a discussion post after watching a video related the course content for that week. These videos will generally be 15-20 minute TED talks, documentaries, or at times lectures by social scientists and scholars who are highly regarded in their fields. These videos will give you an opportunity to see how scholars are addressing the concepts related to globalization, and how such scholars engage with, agree with, disagree with, or criticize other scholars. This will give you familiarity with ongoing debates around globalization. Every Monday, you will have to return to the “Video Discussion” a reply to your peers.

5 Module Exams: There will be five tests during the quarter, which are designed to assess your conceptual knowledge and reading comprehension. Each test will focus on one module, and each test will be available for 3 full days following the completion of the module. The tests are timed and must be completed in one sitting; you cannot return to the test a second time once it has been opened and closed.

CLASSROOM POLICIES

*These policies may apply differently to students with DRC accommodations. I will be working with all students individually to meet their accommodations.

- No shaming, no judging: This classroom is a “no shaming, no judgment zone.” It is important that everyone contributes and that everyone is accountable to class policies. But we will not be shaming or looking negatively upon others for mistakes, for their political beliefs, or for any other reason.
- Collective Structure: This class is based upon the principles of cooperation and collaboration. Students who develop strong community bonds in college tend to succeed. Additionally, social scientists find that participation in cooperative groups builds “social capital”—a term for hard-to-measure human capacities involving trust and one’s ability to collaborate. All areas of life—including employment, family, community, and politics—involve working together. The development of human capital greatly influences the efficacy of social groups. Thus we will model this behavior in an authentic manner in our discussion boards. Everyone in class wishes to succeed, and everyone can participate in making that goal a reality.
- Late work: If you are having significant health or personal issues that prevent you from completing your work on time, please contact me directly about an individualized plan. I will work with you so that you can make up the content and assignments you missed. However, if you miss a deadline due to other reasons, I will use the following late policy automatically (you do not need permission from me for these policies). Reading Notes: Reading notes cannot be turned in late. This assignment is designed to promote and reward consistent reading/notetaking. The lowest reading notes grade will be dropped, so all students have an automatic freebie. Readings/Video Discussions: You may turn in your discussion assignments late for 85% of the grade for up to one week. Exams: Students must provide genuine evidence of illness or other emergency in order to make up an exam. The exam must be made up within one week of the exam due date.

- English Second (or more) Language Students: If English is a second (or third or fourth) language, I encourage you to talk with me directly so that we can make sure the learning environment works for you.
- Academic integrity: Cheating and plagiarism (using the ideas or words of another as one's own without crediting the source) are violations of the Student Code of Conduct at Bellevue College. Please familiarize yourself with BC's Student Code of Conduct: <http://www.bellevuecollege.edu/policies/id-2050/>. I will report all instances of cheating/plagiarism to the campus Behavioral Intervention Team (now known as the CARE team).
- Communicating with me: I encourage you to communicate with me a lot and in a way that works best for you. I will be answering your messages swiftly. However, if I do not answer your inquiry in about a day, you should feel comfortable to follow up. Please do not worry about offending or annoying me.
