Course Assignments:

Textbook readings and additional readings and videos— students are expected to read the assigned chapters in order to participate in the discussions and complete the final exam.

Group Post/Discussion — Students will utilize the Canvas discussion boards to share their research and comments on the readings for each week. Students will be asked to complete short tasks related to the content of the week, share their questions on the material, provide additional examples for the week, and comment on a guided question.

Blog Post – students will write a 500-1000 word blog essay on a topic of their choice related to international relations. This is a 5 paragraph essay and should include links to online information. The purpose of this essay is to give students a framework for expressing their opinions using evidence. Students will complete the blog in pieces as separate assignments.

Tyranny Project – Students will read “On Tyranny” by Timothy Snyder and complete create a short document in which they select one of the lessons to review. Students will provide a cover image, summarize the lesson and why it is important, give a real world example of it being upheld and an example of it being violated in the world, and give an action plan regarding what can be done to challenge tyranny.

Simulation – this project simulates a peace summit amongst conflictual parties. Students will work in their assigned groups to come up with solutions and work with other students in the course to write agreements. Students will prepare research on their own, coordinate with their group on strategies, work with students in other groups to find solutions and write agreements, and write a reflection on their own.

Final Exam – students will respond to 5 essay questions with proper citations and use of course materials. Students will select the 5 questions to respond to from grouped categories. Classroom Learning Atmosphere

Instructor's Expectations

This class is online – to achieve success, students should expect to get online at least 3 times per week. Modules will be available on a weekly basis and students should utilize the suggested “work flows” provided in the weekly introductions. Falling behind will make it very difficult to successfully complete the course.

You will find a separate calendar with due dates and every week there will be a list of tasks to complete – you can find this in the weekly introductions.

We will be covering sensitive topics including violence due to war, human rights violations, migration and refugees, and poverty. Please let me know if you are concerned about any of the topics and we will find a solution.

We will have online discussions in this course – please focus on the arguments and not the people. We can disagree, but we cannot be disrespectful. You will receive additional guidance regarding discussions during the first week. Failure to follow the guidelines will result in no credit for the assignment and could result in an administrative drop from the course.

Accessibility

The online elements of this course are designed to be welcoming to, accessible to, and usable by everyone, including students who are English-language learners, have a variety of learning styles, have disabilities, or are new to online learning. Be sure to let me know immediately if you encounter a required element or resource in the course that is not accessible to you. Also, let me know of changes I can make to the course so that it is more welcoming to, accessible to, or usable by students who take this course in the future.

Additional Information

A note about accessing Canvas from the People's Republic of China: some users have reported that they do not have full access to all Canvas functionality from within the People's Republic of China. This appears to be due to Canvas' parent company, Instructure, not fully committing to Chinese government requirements regarding internet operations within the country. The Chinese government does not inform foreign entities of their policy updates; therefore, Bellevue College cannot anticipate access to Canvas.

If you will be in China during the quarter, you should prepare for intermittent and uncertain access to Canvas.
