

Tips for Success in Online Classes

How are your classes going so far? Read below for some tips for staying on track!

Time Management

Time management is key for online classes.

Review class syllabus on the same day each week and note important assignment due dates and test dates in your calendar.

Create a weekly schedule to stick to throughout the quarter. Create blocks of time to work on each of your classes so you can have a weekly routine!

Set personal reminders or ask your NA for reminders to stay on top of assignments and tasks.

Use Your Resources

All BC resources are still available to you online!

The Academic Success Center offers Online Tutoring in a wide variety of subjects. Click here to see what subjects are offered and the different formats available:

Talk to an Academic Advisor with any questions you have about your classes now or future classes. Click here to learn more about how to schedule an appointment:

And of course, the DRC is there for you as well! Email your Access Specialist with questions and concerns.

Staying Organized

Staying organized is key with online classes! Create a regular study space at home and stay organized.

Use tools like folders, binders, etc. to create an organization system that works for you. It takes time to find a system that works, so it's all about trial and error.

Each time you begin to study, make sure you have all your required materials. Review your class syllabus and assignments to make sure you have everything you need.

Actively Participate

Even though it looks a bit different in online classes, active participation is just as important in online classes as well.

Use online class discussions to engage with the class material and your classmates.

Ask your professor any questions you have - you can use Canvas, email, or their virtual office hours.

Instructors expect that you login into Canvas daily, so check for messages and announcements!

Stay Connected

Create new connections in your online classroom. Take advantage of your professor's virtual office hours, and reach out to them with any questions you might have.

Chat with classmates in your classes via MS Teams and check in with NdN friends at Project Lab!
