PROF SPOTLIGHT

Dr. Brian Casserly – History

I've never met a prof as great at his job! While my habits have set me up for failure, he has worked with me to ensure that I'm getting the grades I'm capable of. I once had a 7-page paper that I was seriously procrastinating on, but I took a risk and expressed my concerns to him. He worked with me and helped me get over the stress that keeps me from finishing assignments. I'm not a fan of history, but he's helped me learn and become successful in spite of that. I'd advise anyone needing Humanities credits to take a look at his classes. By Bradford Ozuk

CEO INSIDER – Student spotlight

Jamie Schultz – CEO Leadership Team

I found the CEO program through some fellow homeschoolers a couple of years ago! I ended up being homeschooled/unschooled throughout all of high school due to chronic illness (not that I really complained about missing the high school drama), and had a bit of catching up to do for college. The CEO program was a great way for me to figure out how to balance health problems and college, and really helped me to meet a lot of my friends. My first 5 quarters I ended up in the same CEO and other classes with Jessi Walker, the current president, and it helped SO much to have a friend that I could count on!

When I'm not at Bellevue College, I'm usually outside. I love hiking and exploring, and am currently working towards getting a nationally renowned certification in wildlife tracking. I'm also a team leader and training instructor for King County Explorer Search and Rescue! Don't get me wrong though, I'm all about lazy days inside and Netflix marathons.

Bradford Ozuk – Watchdog Staff Member

In high school I wasn't the best student, but when I turned 16 I signed up for Running Start anyways, and immediately jumped into the college experience. Needless to say my habits of old caught up to me real quick, and I struggled for a handful of quarters here, resulting in quite a few withdrawals. Suddenly, I was 18-19 and I didn't have any idea if I was ever going to succeed. My high school advisor at the time, Mr. Courtney, told me that if I kept on my path I was not going to graduate high school before my eventual age out of the program. He pointed me towards a program at a community college in downtown Seattle, but since I liked it so much here I found out that CEO was the equivalent.

This program has made all the difference so far. With the guidance of Paul, Jenna, Lori, Glenn, Christy, Tamara and Juan I've made huge strides towards success in school. I haven't gotten less than an A in my time in the CEO program, a feat I would have otherwise thought impossible. They've opened my eyes up to the possibilities and resources here; through it I'm receiving free school and I'm even a reporter at the college newspaper, the Watchdog. The program has worked wonders for me and I'm not sure how I would have gotten by without it.
